FOOTBALL SEASON COMES TO CLOSE

Hair Cut for Gridiron Heroes and Mothballs for Their Suits.

BASKETBALL COMES NEXT.

The Popular Indoor Game Promises to Have a Successful Run in Salt Lake This Winter.

The football season for 1906 has closed. Basketball will now come to take its place. The game promises to be popular in Utah this winter. The different schools and colleges are awakening and will put strong teams in the field for the state championship. This far greater interest seems to be manifest in the graded schools and in the colleges. The different high schools of the state have as yet not signified their intentions of doing anything. They have the best opportunity of getting fast teams together and thus develop good strong players for future teams. The colleges are agitating the movement and getting greater results.

B. Y. U. OF PROVO.

Coach Teezel has collected together a fast, strong group of players. Rose is by far the best man on the team. Christensen at center always proves himself to be a tower of strength and adds materially to the winning of the team as does Greenwood, a fast forward. This team was brought together for the first time last year, though all had played the game at previous times while in the elementary schools and since coming to the college. These players last season captured the state championship and are out again to duplicate their act. They have started out the season with a determination that should win. The students of the school are backing their team with all the earnestness and loyalty that they can concentrate. They have a team that will require watching and one the other state institutions must fear.

L. D. S. "MIDGETS."

The Latter-day Saints "Midgets," as they are called by the other teams of the state on account of their small size, came in second last season in the pennant race. This season Coach Milne will spring a surprise. He has had his team out working for more than a month. Every afternoon from 3:30 to 5 o'clock he has from 15 to 20 men on the floor. Some are for class teams who will make first class material in the next few years to come. Only one or two of his fast little team are in school this year. The other players are proving themselves in the few practice games played. Metcalf, Horsfall and Smith are showing up especially strong. Other younger men will also be on hand to represent their college in a bitter skirmish. The Midgets are working hard for their season which soon begins, on account of their size their only hope to win lies on cunning and swiftness to execute plays.

LOGAN SCHOOLS.

Both the B. Y. college and the Aggies will again have representative teams in the league this fall. They have most of their old men back in school and many new ones who are counted on for making a winning team. Coach Campbell of the Aggies has had his eye on several promising men, in fact he thinks he will be able to collect two especially strong teams. Coach Sniedner of the Logan B. Y. C. thinks he has several promising men in his school. He has had his candidates out all fall practicing soccer football as a preliminary step for fast men indoors. What men he has or who will make up his team is not known but as usual he can well be considered in the championship candidates.

Basket ball at the state university is dead. Coach Maddock, whether he knows it or not, has several old stars in the school, and any number of youngsters who have played the game to some extent in the different preparatory centers. Last year many players signified their intention of getting together and organizing, but nothing was done. Among these was Henry Peterson, an old Saint player, and others. Other men who enjoy the game signified their desire of forming, but the movement was killed in a council meeting. The same has been done again this year. Utah has representative players, who can well uphold the institution's honor when pitted against their rivals. The game has many advantages and becomes by all means an indulgence by the students and professors. What can be more beneficial for a football man after playing a hard season, or for a track man who is training for a gruelling and vigorous campaign? The other schools have considered this and will profit thereby.

Y. M. C. A. BASKETBALL TEAM.

The Y. M. C. A. team is composed of old stars, men who play for the love of the game, many times they learned while in the graded school in city or country hamlets. Ralph Connel, right guard, is without doubt the best man on the team. He has few if any equals in the state or intermountain country. All teams which the Christians have lined up against have admitted this, and often were compelled to send two men after him. Louis Hirschvogel is an old L. D. S. and former Y. M. C. A. player, who, with advancing years, becomes all the more a terror. Scidmore does one closer to the game, he is with as much activity on the floor, get about with as little apparent exertion. Hirschvogel is at home on any part of the basketball field. With McConnell, a team has little chance of beating. George Hofmann is another old-timer who played his first year on the Y. M. C. A. last season. Since Hofmann's reputation as a center, he is a giant in stature, active and alive to all parts of the game. His greatest difficulty, however, is control of himself, which however, is control of his opponent. Elwood Brown has assumed the duties of coach this season, and is fast wiping the men into shape. He has made two finds in Clarke and Wright, who play forward and guard respectively. In the few times they have been under fire they have proven themselves to be coming stars of the team. The B. Y. and the Y. M. C. A. are scheduled to play a game at the local quarters this Saturday, evening. The contest will be close and bitterly fought. Last Saturday the Provo side proved the stronger, and won by an overwhelming score. This time another tale will be told, according to Christian players. The teams will line up as follows:

Y. M. C. A. Position. B. Y. U.
Hirschvogel, R. F., Chamberlain
Wright, L. F., Christensen
Hofmann, C., Brown
McConnell, C., Scidmore
Clarke, L. G., Greenwald
Taylor, of Salt Lake, referee; McConnell, Provo, umpire.

WHAT IS A FOUL?

Goldfield Contest Raises Anew Old Repeated Question to Fight Fans.

When a foul is not a foul is a question the fight fans have urged until they are sick of that Goldenfield fight. Goldfield does a ring battle take place that there is not one more palpable foul committed, but as long as the perpetrator gets away with it he is considered a fair fighter.

ELLER MAKES NEW HURDLE RECORD.

One of the athletic sensations of the year has been furnished by John J. Eller, the New York city policeman-athlete, who a fortnight ago left a hospital after his recovery from a fractured skull and smashed the long standing indoor record of 31.5 seconds in the 220-yard high hurdle record at the championship meeting of the Amateur Athletic union in the metropolis. Eller hung up the new figures 28.4 seconds.

and enough to put an ordinary man at business. That was two wallop where another man would land only one—the hand on the jaw and the rest on the back of the head. Tom didn't know much then, and it was nothing but his strength kept him going. No one thought Choyznaki meant at all, but it happened so often that not pretty raw. The old sailor stuck, rough, with all the claims.

"I'll tell you another pretty one McCoy pulled off. Remember the fight I fought Peter Maher down at Coney stand? That was a tough fight while lasted. Peter was there battling away o' top to the fifth round. We didn't know just who would win up to that time. McCoy struck the bell, he gave under Maher's nose, shoved it up with a all his might, and when Peter, who was stung by the rip winked, McCoy shot over the right and there was nothing to do but start the fight.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath.

Disagreeable Odor Arising From Indigestion or From Any Habit or Indulgence, Can be Instantly Stopped.

Sample Package Mailed Free.

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning—that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all the nauseating you bech in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour brash and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet. Just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your drugist and get a box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cheerful" inside.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address P. A. Stuart Co., 60 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

INDIANS STRONG RUNNERS.

Outdoor Life and Hunting Encourage Fleetness of Foot for These Rovers.

In the little mountain town of Bocoyia, state of Chihuahua, Mexico, a firm of American railroad contractors has come upon a race of Indians who to physical endurance and long-distance running ability are simply marvellous. This tribe of savages call themselves the Tarahumaras, and their prowess in the science of long-distance running cannot stay much more than 10 miles, the Tarahumaras think nothing of jaunts of 100 to 200 miles, and these distances, too, at a gallop that seems incredible. W. D. Hornaday, who has been in Mexico with the American engineers, tells some astounding stories of races by these savages, says the New York Sun.

The favorite course is from Bocoyia to the town of Minaca and return, a distance of 110 miles in all and over a trail exceedingly rough in places. At a race not long ago the American made up a purse of $100 to be awarded to the winner. Great interest was manifested in the race, for the sum offered is quite a fortune to the members of the tribe. A council of war was immediately held by the chiefs, and two of the fastest runners were selected to do battle for the prize.

When all was ready the runners set out from Bocoyia first at a slow swinging gait. As they went along they warmed to their work and the pace was quickened. To the surprise of everybody the winner made the full distance in 15 hours. This easily beats all previous by the old-time distance pedes of England or America. Away back in 1882 J. Saunders of New York City ran 110 miles in 20 hours, 15 minutes, 10 seconds, but Saunders, as he was, would have been miles behind the Indian.

CALIFORNIA HAS FAST ONE.

Race Horses Produced by Golden Gate State Rival Those of Blue Grass.

Talking of California, said the man from the blue grass, "most people interested in horse know that the fastest trotter in the world, Lou Dillon, was bred there; that the sire of the second fastest, Major Delmar, came from the same state, and that the third fastest, Sweet Marie, is likewise a California product. I am not saying this to make any of you loose eastern conversationalists back up, because you don't know how, but merely to introduce you to the wonder of the only mare that ever had four of her foals enter the 2:10 list.

"This mare is Bertha and she is owned in California. I am sorry to say she was not bred here, but she went west at an early age, and her four 2:10 performers, not to mention four others with records better than 2:20 and two more that can do the trick any time they like, owners want them to be California sires.

"How is this here Bertha horse bred?" asked the only Kentuckian in the party.

"By Alcantara, and her dam was by Bayard."

"Bayard is a Kentucky horse," asserted the man from the blue grass. "Mistah Alexander bred him at Spring station, right close to Lexington."

"O yes," admitted the Californian. "Bayard was bred in Kentucky. But Bertha, that California mare, is a wonder. Here are her produce and their records, all being pacers, and all, with the exception of Owyho, sired by Charles Derby: Don Derby, 2:04 1/4; Owyho, 2:07 1/4; Debertha, 2:07 1/4; Diablo, 2:09 1/4; Demono, 2:11; Elf, 2:12 1/4; Ed, 2:14 1/4; Laffer, 2:16; Amer, 2:17 1/4.

"Interesting," said the Kentuckian, "interesting, but might I be permitted to ask how this Charles Derby horse is bred, huh?"

"That's fair—sure a got away with it."

"This fellow Tommy Ryan is a tricky plug, too. He belts a man over the head with his forearm. That doesn't hurt his hands, you know, and it hurts just the same as if he used a bat. They never get wise. The fighters are wise, of course, but Ryan is such a serious looking fellow they never think he means it."

"Little Eddie Hanlon used to get his thumb and finger around a fellow's throat in clinches and choke his wind off. Eddie was clever at it, too, and the referee never tumbled once. The other fellow would choke and cough and be in distress, of course, but Hanlon never was caught. It helped him win when he kept the other man worried."

STANFORD TO ROW.

All Efforts Will be Bent on Producing A Winning Eight.

Stanford University, Nov. 30.—By deciding to row in intercollegiate races next spring on eight-oared shells boatmen bids fair to rival the position of some of the other older sports. The change from the old four-oared boat to the big eight marks a period of transition from a trial basis to a fixed event. The interest has increased simultaneously with the standardizing of the sport to the class of eastern colleges.

The natural facilities at Stanford are not all that could be wished for, but they are sufficient to accommodate the crews in their efforts to learn the strokes.

The material at present at Stanford will undoubtedly make a good showing next spring. The class teams of last season were strong, especially the varsity four, has returned intact and probably will fill four of the eight seats in the new shell. The men of the 1905 and 1906 crews will stand good chances of pulling an oar in the intercollegiate regatta, as will the new students.

Such men as Fred Zimmerman '07, captain-elect, and J. R. Pemberton, who rowed for the Portland Athletic club this summer in the crew of four that smashed the world's record in trial for the two-mile race, will set a pace that should make all coast followers of aquatic sports hustle. The other men of the varsity of last year are in the same class.

Dan Murphy, who coached the crews last semester and who will occupy the same position this year, is slated over the material eligible for an eight-oared crew. The men who made the four last year were the heaviest men on the squad, but they were not much superior in style to some of the lighter men. Dan expects to fill up the ends of the boat with these class lightweight.

The squad is in excellent trim for eight-oar work. Last season the coach kept the men at practice longer after the team was picked in the lighter men. Murphy will start work with his men at the opening of the spring semester. The preliminary practice will be confined mostly to rowing machines. Stanford is well equipped with boats and necessary gear, but will suffer a severe handicap because of the poor natural facilities.

Larum Lake, located to the rear of the university buildings, is far too small to allow much work by a speedy eight. The crew will however, be able to learn the strokes on the lake.

The eight-oared shell will be purchased from Cornell University, the students of which have offered to allow the cardinal oarsmen to have one of the class shells at cost. The boat will be shipped immediately to enable the crew to start early.

"Certainly, he is by Steinway and out of an Electioneer mare."

"Steinway, huh, was bred, I believe, in Kentucky."

"That's right; he was."

"Also, huh, he held the three-year-old trotting record back in 1879."

"That is true. But the climate of California is such that when Bertha was taken from New York to—"

"Pardon me, huh, for interrupting you; but did you say Bertha was by Alcantara?"

"Of course. Now, as I said, the climate—"

"That Alcantara horse was foaled right close to Lexington, I mind him well when my friend, Col. Mike Boyeman, trained him."

"And say," continued the Californian, "Bertha has a two-year-old by Searchlight that is simply a speed wonder. It can—"

"Excuse me once more, huh, but was this Searchlight horse by Dark Night?"

"Why, yes. Now this two-year-old can just—"

"Yes, huh, I recollect Searchlight pretty well. He was bred by my old friend, Maj. Richmond of Lexington."

"Say!" exclaimed the Californian, "who's telling this story? I started out to inform you of the greatest brood mare in the world—a California mare, a mare from the sunny slopes where grow the vines that produce the finest wines in the world, sir."

"Talking of wines," said the Illinois man, "let's have another drink."

"I think myself that a mare bred in New York, whose sire and dam came from Kentucky, and whose colts are by horses bred in Kentucky, can hardly be credited to the glorious climate of California."

"You are right, huh," said the Kentuckian. "It is time for another drink. As a matter of fact, huh, it is always time for another drink."

FREAK RACERS TO GO.

Effort Made to Eliminate Them From Dayton-Ormond Races.

Several men who want to enter high powered racing cars in the coming Dayton-Ormond meet continue to protest against the "freaks," as they call some of the short distance sprinting machines. E. Rand Hollender, the Flat representative in this country, has suggested a plan for the elimination of "freaks" which has met with the approval of A. L. Riker (Locomobile), S. B. Bowman (Clement-Bayard), Andre Massenet (Panhard), E. S. Partridge (C. G. V.), and other prospective entrants of racing machines in the Florida meet. Hollender asks that the long distance races be placed first in the week's program, with the sprint reserved for the closing day. Machines, in order to qualify for the championship dashes at one, two and five miles, would be required to show an average speed in the races at 100 miles, 50 kilometers and 30 miles of, say, 40 miles an hour. This would eliminate the "freaks" and the cars that could go the pace at all distances would line up for the world's championship at one mile.

STRONG PORTLAND BOWLER.

C. H. Ball Will "be There" at Western Bowling Congress in Denver.

Portland, Or., Nov. 30.—Portland will send a man to the next annual tournament of the Western Bowling congress next spring who will give a good account of himself in the contest for the individual championship of the coast. He is C. H. Ball, the most consistent pin-smasher the northwest has yet produced, and a member of the "Oregon Five" of the Portland City Bowling League. Ball has been toppling the timber for the last three years and from his first season's work on the alleys he was touted as a genius with the ball.

Since his very first grasp of the game he has rarely fallen below an average of 200 per game in match play, often scoring from 25 to 35 above the two-century mark. His most conspicuous feat of the present season was in a game with the "Hop Gods," a couple of weeks ago, when he averaged 255 for each of the three games in the evening's play.

Not only is Ball capable of brilliant effort in team work, but his scores in two-men and individual matches place him in the highest rank among the all-around bowlers of the west. In individual match play Ball has made one perfect score so far this season. He undoubtedly will capture one of the five-men teams sent to represent Oregon in the coming annual meet of the W. B. C.

KING GEORGE A SPORT.

Ruler of Greece a True Sport and Interesting Hunter of Big Game.

Rome, Nov. 30.—King George of Greece and King Victor Emmanuel, accompanied by their suites, were driven in automobiles today to Castel Porziano, the royal preserves, in the beautiful pine woods near Ostia, which extend to the Mediterranean.

Their majesties visited the spot where, according to classical legend, Aeneas founded the city of Lavinium. After taking part in a successful wild boar hunt the kings lunched at the royal hunting lodge and returned to Rome.
